Oldest newspaper in Richmond; has the confidence and support of pioneers.

VOL. XXI RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1924 No.

Coolidge Has Sufficient Delegates to Nominate

Sure Victory For Him In the National Convention

Chicago, April 17.—With approximately one half the delegates to the republican national convention already selected and a large majority instructed or pledged, managers of the pre-convention campaign in behalf of President Coolidge lay claim today to 499 instructed and favorable delegates out of 556 necessary to nominate.

According to the statement of former Congressman James W. Good of Iowa, western manager of the Coolidge forces, the president will have a safe majority for the nomination. Additional strength for the president is expected by his managers to come from the Maryland, Indiana and California presidential primaries early next month.

Stick 'Em on Your Windshield

Oakland, April 18.—In Imitation of the regulation number pad for automobiles, thousands of automobile windshield stickers were being distributed to motorists of the east-bay district.

In size and shape, and done in the conventional green and white of the 1924 automobile license pads, the stickers will each carry a vote for the incumbent candidate. At the extreme left, in small letters and numerals, printed vertically, is the legend "Cal 24." This is followed by the name "Coolidge" taking the place of the regular numerals in the license number. It is good publicity for a good man, Calvin Coolidge.

J. A. Sturm Sells Store to J. E. Erich

Joseph A. Sturm, who has for a number of years conducted a stationery store at 326 Macdonald, and who was one of Richmond's popular merchants, has sold his business to J. E. Erich, who has taken possession and who will no doubt retain the many friends of his predecessor and continue to keep them as patrons. Mr. Sturm will retire to his ranch near Walnut Creek, where he will take a much needed rest. He leaves many friends here, who hope that he will come over the hills occasionally to visit us.

War Is Waged On Squrirels

Four hundred head of dairy and range stock in Briones Valley were slaughtered Tuesday and 150 more head were killed Wednesday in an effort to halt the hoof and mouth scourge in that district, it was announced today by Dr. John Dickson, head of government and state officials in this county.

War is now being waged on squirrels as disease carriers.

Boy Scout "Labor Troubles"

The boy scouts building, under the supervision of Councilman E. J. Garrard, is to be completed by labor donated by several business men of Richmond, the protest by local ministers against the racket of the hammer and saw on Sundays winning out. The boy scouts headquarters will be completed by labor during regular week days. This is satisfactory to all hands, and especially to the scouts, who are directly interested.

Ford Declines Honor Tendered by Mich. Democrats

Detroit, April 18.—Henry Ford declines the honor of presidential nominee, and so informs the state chairman of the state democratic convention, William A. Comstock.

Mr. Ford says he will support Calvin Coolidge, not as a republican, but as a personal friend, believing that Coolidge is the best available timber.

Many Autoists Get Tickets For Judge

One Hundred and twenty unhappy motorists will face Contra Costa judges this week as the result of the active operation of the county traffic squad Sunday night between Martinez and the Alameda county line. According to C. A. Belon, chief of the traffic squad, 120 drivers were cited by speed officers for speed and violation of headlight laws.

Wood Duck Has Queer Habits All Its Own

The wood duck, unlike most other ducks, usually builds his nest far from his natural element, water. Sometimes it may be a mile or more from the nearest water course, but he has solved the difficulty of transporting the family from the nest to the feeding grounds in a truly remarkable way, says the Detroit News.

No sooner are the eggs hatched into ducklings, about the size of bumble bees, than each parent bird takes a little one in its bill, wriggles through the opening in the chestnut tree or white oak which harbors the nest, and with a quick glance lest some enemy may lurk near, flies swiftly overland to creek or water hole. Here the tiny burdens are dropped gently into the water.

Without previous swimming lessons these newly hatched mites dart over the surface of the water for the cover of marsh grass or lilypad, where they hide until the return of their parents with more of their brothers and sisters.

African Must Not Meet His Mother-in-Law

Mr. Lole Davis, a diamond prospector who recently returned from Portuguese West Africa, states that among the Backoko tribe it is illegal for a man to see his mother-in-law after the marriage feast, says London Tit-Bits.

"If ever they meet afterward," he says, "the one who sees the other first has to pay a heavy penalty in silver or salt.

"I was going through one of the Backoko villages with my guide when suddenly he uttered a loud yell, leaped to one side of the path, and ran away as fast as he could, after throwing his packages on the ground.

"I chased him and caught him under a tree, shaking violently. When I asked what was the matter he replied, 'Because of my mother-in-law.' I then learned that we had been within a few feet of his mother-in-law's palm-thatched hut."

THE TERMINAL can print it for you. Call up Richmond 132. Print shop at 208 Macdonald.

Penny Wise

"Where are you going with the penny?"

Such was the question put to small Kitty.

"To Sunday school," was her reply, "That's the only place I know you can go for a penny."

Wrangling at Capital Shakes People's Confidence

Washington, D. C., April 17.—The unnecessary wrangling in Washington is interferring with the new business enterprises between here and Europe, which are of great importance to the countries of all the world.

We are the only financial country that the business world has confidence in. Our legislators should attend to their business and not waste time wrangling over frivolous things that both parties are likely guilty of.

The people of this country want a reduction of taxes, so that all kinds of business can give employment and pay fair wages to the workingman. We require this kind of legislation in congress. This will stimulate business and enable all companies to give plenty of work and pay fair wages, so that everybody will be happy.

President Coolidge Is Baseball Fan

Washington, April 18.—President Coolidge formally opened the baseball season in this city Tuesday between Philadelphia and Washington. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur headed the parade across the park to the flagpole for the flag raising.

Cockney's Joke

For a recent exhibition at London of the current fashions in dress, both for men and for women, life-like models—beautiful waxen women and smiling waxen men—were carried to the hall. On occasions like that, says the London Daily Chronicle, cockney wit comes into its own and reaches the heights. There was a carter who, observing the embarrassment of a shamefaced youth struggling along with a dressmaker's life-sized dummy in his arms, urged him to "'Urry up, young man, 'er father's after you!"

A Wasted Life

An old Scotchman who went to a horse race for the first time was induced to stake 5 shillings in the third race on a 50-to-1 chance.

The horse won and when the bookmaker handed the old man his winnings he could hardly believe his eyes.

"Dae ye mean to say I get all this for ma 5 shillings?" he exclaimed.

"You do," replied the bookmaker.

"Ma conscience!" muttered the Scotchman. "Tell me, mon, how long has this thing been going on?"

To Amuse Shoppers

China's newest department store in Hankow is to have a theater, a concert hall and other entertainments, alongside the bargain counters for the amusement of its shoppers. The Wing On company, conductor of department stores in Shanghai and Hongkong, has acquired about two acres of land on the main street of Hankow for the erection of the several buildings.

Irresponsible Music

A young man in a tight suit with spring-bottom trousers was overheard by a Youngstown Telegram reporter to say to a clerk in a music store: "What jazz tune is that girl playing in the back of the store?"

"That isn't any tune," the clerk replied, "it's one of the clerks dustin' off a piano."

The Early Bird

"Did you come out well at Christmas, Johnny?"

"Yes; I got more than any of my brothers and sisters."

"How did that happen?"

"I got up two hours before they did."

"I Saw It in THE TERMINAL."

Cities Will Endeavor to Get Portion of Auto Tax

The League of California Municipalities which met in San Francisco last week will endeavor to have placed on the ballot, by initiative petitions a measure seeking to have one-fourth of the motor vehicle license fees and gasoline tax funds apportioned to cities.

It is estimated that this tax under its present mode of application, accumulates a fund of $20,000,000 annually, and is divided between the state and the counties to be used in construction and maintenance.

Inasmuch as the cities bear a large share of the traffic burden and also pay a large percentage of the motor taxes without receiving any return, the cities are entitled one-half the counties' portion of the road fund.

Richmond city council has approved the resolutions adopted by the league and the latter's action in the apportionment of this tax.

City Treasurer Ira R. Vaughn reports a balance of $220,000 in the city treasury April 1, 1924.

Tom Johnston was re-elected city trustee in Martinez, at the municipal election Monday. Tom is a popular city official.

Earth Wrinkle Is Over Eleven Miles Deep

The maximum difference in elevation of land in the United States is 14,777 feet, according to the geological survey of the Department of the Interior. Mount Whitney, the highest point, is 14,501 feet above sea level, and a point in Death valley is 276 feet below sea level. These two points which are both in California, are less than ninety miles apart. This difference is small, however, as compared with the figures for Asia. Mount Everest rises 29,002 feet above the sea level, whereas the shores of the Dead sea are 1,290 feet below the sea level, a total difference in land heights of 30,292 feet. Mount Everest has never been climbed.

The greatest ocean depth yet found is 32,088 feet, at a point about forty miles north of the island of Mindanao in the Philippine islands. The ocean bottom at this point is therefore more than eleven and one-half miles below the summit of Mount Everest.

The difference in the land heights in Europe is about 15,868 feet.

Marriage Made in Heaven

"You used to say you thought Heaven sent me to you," said the young wife, fearfully, during their first quarrel.

"And I say so still—"

"Really?" she exclaimed, delighted.

"Yes," he added, coldly, "as a punishment."

Thousand Oaks Plans Beautiful Masonic Building

Albany, California, April 18.—Plans have been drawn for the $50,000 Masonic temple to be erected at the corner of Colusa and Solano, Thousand Oaks, an ideal location and convenient of access, being on the S. P. electric and one block from the Alameda avenue traction line.

The building is being erected to meet the need for a hall for private parties, entertainments, dancing etc., the latter amusement to be on the first floor, which will comprise a suite of club rooms, including billiards, library, etc.

The top floor will be used entirely for lodge purposes, and will be modern and convenient in all its appointments.

Thousand Oaks Lodge No. 478, F. & A. M., and the Order of Eastern Star, have a large membership, which has outgrown its housing facilities, and calls for the excellent building now being planned.

Albany Holds Spirited Election; Many Surprises

[Special Correspondence].

Albany, April 16.—There were a number of astonished candidates in Albany Monday evening when the votes were counted, and a number candidates who had been working diligently for several weeks heard the results called out after the count.

The greatest surprise was the overwhelming majority given H. W. Brewer, a new resident of Albany, who ran for clerk. There were two candidates against him, incumbent W. N. Vierra and Judge John H. Paul. Brewer beat both the incumbent and Paul; the latter over three to one. Vierra was a little better than Paul in the totals, receiving 382, Paul 194 and Brewer 648.

Mr. Brewer goes into office with a clean slate, no "grudges," no political debts, a free lance, and all believe he will be the man who will give Albany the service she needs.

Three trustees were elected—C. F. Whitmore, A. Severy and Geo. C. Lenfestey, all good men, who received emphatic majorities over their competitors, J. E. Becker, Geo. W. Browne and Jack Mattos.

Mrs. Freda Brown, Albany's efficient city Treasurer, had no opposition, and received a few votes less than 1200.

Albany's registered vote is 1643, about 400 more than the registered vote of Martinez, or a few votes less than one-fourth of the registered vote of Richmond.

El Cerrito's Mayor Is Defeated

Mayor Phil A. Lee of El Cerrito was defeated for re-election, Fred Lutz winning over him by a majority of 47 votes.

The other members of the board of trustees, George Conlin, Frank McDermott and C. W. Zimmerman were re-elected.

Mrs. Alice M. Morris was re-elected clerk by a large majority, and Mrs. Cora J. M. Simonson was elected city treasurer by a majority of one vote over her nearest competitor, Miss Mary E. Curtin.

El Cerrito has the diphtheria epidemic to contend with, along with the defeated candidates.

The April rush for homes is going strong from Berkeley to Richmond, and sales of residential property continues steady.

Nicholl Location Cheap Enough; Out of Town

Telephone Saves Time Labor and Shoe Leather

Newspaper reporters and editors were quick to appreciate the value of the telephone, and as soon as as the first commercial phone exchange was opened in the city of New Haven, Conn., in January, 1878., the local newspapers began to make use of its facilities.

Before the advent of the telephone exchange, if an accident or other event of importance happened at a point distant from a telegraph office—and branch telegraph offices in cities were few and far between in those days—reporters were in the habit of gathering the names of the participants and the essential facts, and then hastening with all possible speed to the editorial rooms. Today a reporter may go to the nearest telephone and give the facts to a rewrite man in the main office, who will write the story, or he may dictate the story verbatim over the telephone.

Not only the news but also the advertising and business departments of the modern newspaper are finding the telephone a great aid. A large proportion of the classified ads are now sent in by wire, and many newspapers, for the convenience of their advertisers, are telling the public to "telephone your want ads."

The telephone exchange in the city of Denver recently celebrated its forty-fifth birthday. When it was first opened on Feb. 24, 1879, it had 200 subscribers. Now there are 67,000 telephones in Denver.

New York City has three times as many telephones as entire continent of South America.

Tips For Careless Campers

The national forests are your playgrounds. In order to keep them green you must be careful with fire. The following rules are suggested by the U. S. Forest Service:

Break your match in two, or pinch the head to be sure its out.

Stamp or pinch out the fire in burning cigars cigarettes, or tobacco before disposing of them.

Build a small camp fire in the center of a cleared space; never against a tree or log, or near brush.

Before leaving camp, put out every spark of your fire with a plentiful supply of water; then cover it with a large mound of of earth.

Do not pollute the water of lakes and streams.

Bury or burn all refuse promptly—even tin cans.

Live up to the fish and game laws.

Think of the fellow who comes after you.

Leave a clean camp and a clean record.

The restriction of campers caused by the hoof and mouth plague, may give the forests a chance to recuperate from the fires of past seasons.

Have you investigated that shingle protection process of the Watson Co., which is attracting attention of the lumbermen and the fire departments. See Wm. A. Cassin, 2224 Macdonald.

A. C. Burdick and Thomas Boyer went to Petaluma yesterday where Mr. Boyer delivered the address dedicating the big hotel.

Bath Houses For Both Sides of City For Convenience

Whether a bond issue of $85,000 for a municipal swimming tank to be installed on the land near the tunnel on the west side will be the "popular thing," is doubted by a number of the conservatives, and also those who would like to have this "municipal necessity" nearer the center of population.

It requires a two-thirds majority to carry the bonds. As the proposition has twice been defeated, the plans may need revising before the project will go over with that effective (?) "wild whoop" of the high school boys.

Taxpayers are alive to the situation these troublous times, and judging from "reversals" in the late elections, bond issues are not always popular with conservatives.

A bath house conveniently located, built in units as first proposed, would stand a better chance, notwithstanding the generous offer of our town philanthropist, Mr. Nicholl, who may also be interested in accelerating the business activity at the tunnel entrance.

The people are almost unanimously in favor of swimming accommodations. If the project is intelligently and economically engineered, the bonds should carry with little opposition.

Will Open Up This Time Sure

The Richmond theatre at 5th and Macdonald is billed to open Sunday without fail, under the house management of H. E. Losh. "The Plunderer" will be the opening picture. Dan Reardon will be the directing manager. West Macdonald will now have a theatre, renovated and clean to the limit, and will receive the endorsement and we hope the patronage of the people of the "middle west."

Neptune Beach Is Mecca For School Children

Neptune Beach, Alameda, this week, is the mecca for the school children of the entire bay region during their Easter vacation. The park echoes to shouts of, "Come on in, Skinnay, the water's fine." "Oh you, Fat, bet you can't do this high dive," and other phrases that have been in favor with youngsters since the days of the old swimming hole.

Sixty thousand gallons of water an hour are filtered into the beach pool. Thousands of children this week have taken part in the games held at the beach. Half-rate strip coupons have been issued to them and prizes will go to the winners of the Easter egg hunt. Saturday the special Easter week program will be concluded at the beach when the Children's Pet Show is held. An attractive program has been arranged for Sunday. The new concessions are all broken in and the improvements on the land reclaimed from the bay is proceeding satisfactorily.

IMMIGRATION BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

VOTE OF 322 TO 71 FAVORS EXCLUSION PROVISION

JAPAN'S "WARNING" STIRS UP SENATORS

Ambassador Hanihara's Threat of "Grave Consequences" and Hughes' Appeal Ignored By House; Amendments Downed.

Washington.—The house, without even the formality of a record vote, wrote the controversial Japanese exclusion provision into the immigration bill and passed it, 322 to 71.

Scores of amendments offered in an attempt to modify its most important provisions were shouted down by viva-voce votes, the provision basing the quotas on the census of 1890 instead of 1910, as at present, withstanding all attacks.

Rejecting appeals of Secretary of State Hughes to omit it, and ignoring Japanese Ambassador Hanihara's warning off "grave consequences" to American-Japanese relations, the house swiftly adopted the provision, supporters of the bill serving notice that they would insist on its retention cially from the California senators, Hanihara stated, in effect, that in view of the "gentlemen's agreement" restricting Japanese immigration, made in 1907 and 1908, there was no necessity for enacting an exclusion clause. To this, the reply was that the unwritten agreement had never been enforced rigidly and that hundreds of Japanese illegally were gaining entry to the United States each year.

Not in years has the senate been so stirred up as over the Hanihara letter, which was regarded in virtually all quarters as "an astounding document." Hughes' reply, in which he begged Hanihara to accept "renewed assurances of my highest consideration," and stated his views on the so-called "gentlemen's agreement," were substantially those of the ambassador, also drew fire, especially from the two California senators.

PRESIDENT GREETS DELEGATES WOMEN'S NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Washington.—Enforcement and observance of the law is a popular movement, because it is for the purpose of protecting the weak from the strong, President Coolidge told 1,000 delegates to the women's national committee for law enforcement when he received them at the white house. "When there is a lack of respect for the law, a lack of observance, you will find that the weak are imposed upon by the strong; that the strong are inflicting their will upon them and bringing their liberty to destruction.

"It is for that reason that your organization is especially an encouragement to me. It shows not only that we have laws upon the statute books, but there is behind them the determination of an awakened conscience which declares that our liberties are to be made forever secure."

ALLIED MEET NOW PLANNED TO SETTLE OBLIGATIONS

Paris.—The next big step toward a general settlement of the financial problem of Europe will be the calling of an inter-allied conference at which the question of inter-allied debts and European debts to the United States will be raised. This was the almost unanimous belief of French observers while the nation debated the action of the reparations commission in accepting the Dawes report.

Poincare maintaines there can be no final settlement of the reparations problem unless France gets 26,000,000,000 gold marks from Germany plus enough to settle the inter-allied debt to the United States, unless these debts are otherwise adjusted.

Thaw's Release Opposed

Philadelphia.—Opposition to the release of Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgh millionaire and slayer of Stanford White, from Kirkbrides insane asylum arose from an unexpected quarter when William A. Gray, representing Evelyn E. Nesbit, divorced wife of Thaw, appeared before Judge John Monaghan in chambers in the interests of Russell William Thaw, the alleged son of Thaw and Eveyln Nesbit.

Japs Resent House Act

Tokyo.—While foreign officials are reticent about expressing any opinion on the action of the United States lower chamber in passing a new immigration bill abrogating the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan in spite of protests of the Japanese government, enactment of the bill was received with considerable resentment here.

400 Indians Register

Tuolumne.—Hoping to share in an expected settlement by the United States government for lands taken from Northern California Indians, more than 400 of them have registered at the Cherokee reservation here.

Charge Election Frauds

Chicago.—McAdoo forces in Illinois will seek to contest and reverse results of the recent Democratic primary election in districts where delegates of Boss Brennan were victorious over out-and-out McAdoo men.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN MEET ON FINANCE OPENS

Soviet Must Return to Accepted Business Methods and End All Radical Propaganda if Assistance is to Be Obtained.

London.—On the opening of the Anglo-Russian debt conference, a group of leading British bankers emphatically informed the Labor government that trade with Russia will remain strictly limited unless Russia resumes the "accepted methods of intercourse common throughout the world."

The views of the British bankers were voiced in a letter to Premier Macdonald, signed by the chairman of the London City and Midland Bank and head of the experts' committee No. 2; the chairman of the Westminster Bank; directors of the Bank of England, and other prominent figures in the banking world.

They presented the following views as "correctly interpreting the general opinion of the financial community of the country" regarding means of restoring Russia to normalcy: Recognition of debts by Russia. Restitution of private property. Reconstruction of the judicial system. No future confiscation of property. British bankers and business men must be permitted to deal freely with private Russians without interference from the Russian government. The Soviet government must abandon propaganda.

The letter states that Russia is already obtaining limited credits for raw materials and that if she accepts the program presented, confidence in her will return and capital will begin to flow again.

DENYING A SPECIAL SESSION GOVERNOR PLEDGES STATE AID

Sacramento.—Avoiding a special session of the legislature, Governor Richardson has promised to pledge the state to pay back $2,000,000 when the next legislature meets if state bankers and commercial interests will contribute that sum at once to aid in the fight against the hoof and mouth disease in California. The decision on what is termed a "deficiency budget appropriation" came after a delegation of fifty persons representing fifteen state district organizations met with him in Sacramento and urged him to call a special session of the body at which funds would be authorized from the state treasury.

The governor refused to call the special session "of a legislature hostile to his administration," pointed out that the legislature could appropriate only $300,000 at the most, and that only after considerable delay incident to assemblying and considering the matter.

Arab Anti-Zionist Body

Jerusalem.—The executive of the Palestine Arabs has decided to take steps toward the formation of an anti-Zionist world organization to be known as the "Defense of Palestine." According to the report, honorary membership in the organization was offered to King Hussein of the Hedjas, the newly proclaimed Caliph, and his three sons, Feisel, king of Mesopotamia; Emir Abdullah, ruler of Transjordania and Emir Alli, the commander of the Hedjas forces.

40 Held in Klan Clash

Lilly, Pa.—Total arrests in connection with the fatal rioting here between members of the Ku Klux Klan and townsfolk grew to forty when thirteen residents here were taken into custody and lodged in the county jail at Edensburg on charges of murder, rioting and carrying of concealed weapons. Twenty-seven klansmen, previously arrested on charges of inciting a riot and murder, were already held in the jail without bail.

Instructress Fights Assailant

Berkeley.—Lucille Roush, 27, a graduate student and botony instructress of the University of California, escaped from an assailant in the Berkeley hills, who attacked her when she became separated from companions on a botony research trip. Students at the university volunteered their services to the police in a search for the man, whose description was furnished by Miss Roush.

South Dakota Flood

Belle Fourche.—With flood waters of the Belle Fourche river the highest in the history of the city more than twenty-five homes were flooded and many families made homeless, the flood victims being forced to flee without saving household goods. Half of the houses were washed from foundations and dashed to kindling wood against piers of two steel bridges.

Murder Suspect Taken

Los Angeles.—A man giving the name of J. C. Collis, 34, salesman, was arrested here on suspicion of murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Vera Stone, who was strangled to death in her apartment.

London Post Is Sold

London. — "Heavy taxation" was named by Lady Barthurst, former owner of the London Morning Post, as her reason for selling the paper to a group of Conservatives, headed by the Duke of Northumberland.

Villista Leader Surrenders

Juarez.—Gen. Petronio Hernandez, Villista leader, with seventy men, has surrendered, according to advices to Gen. Ramon Lopez from Gen. Marcello Caraveo, commanding the troops in the campaign in Durango.

STATE LETTER

Around Capitol and State Institutions

Appearing before the Northern California Sunday School Council of Religious Education, State Superintendent Will C. Wood asked for a "hands-off" policy for the public schools in religious matters, but declared that they should not stand in the way of religious education for the youth of the state. He will seek legal advice to determine whether or not the Bible may be read in the public schools without comment. He said:

"I believe that everything in the way of sectarian education should be barred from the public schools. But the schools have not a monopoly on the children's time and therefore I do not believe should stand in the way of religious education.

"In the early fifties there was a battle in California which resulted in a constitutional amendment being adopted doing away with religious instruction in the schools. The schools in this state then became secular. The question arose: Is the Bible a secular book? The supreme court has rendered a decision that it is not sectarian and can be purchased and placed in libraries of the schools, but unfortunately it didn't decide whether the Bible could be used in class-rooms of the state and it is this which must be decided one way or another.

"I believe that everything in the way of sectarian education should be barred from our schools. If it is allowed to creep in it will make a cleavage which will result in the wrecking of the public school system. Now, the question arises: How can we introduce religious education without bringing it into the schools? It will have to be attended to by agencies outside the schools. We must depend upon the church, or the home, or the weekday religious schools.

"It would seem to be that if the schools could be dismissed somewhat earlier the children could be given an opportunity to get religious education. That would leave such instruction up to the churches. It would be up to them to provide trained teachers. They will have to assume a definite responsibility.

"The main thing we must recognize is that the public schools must not stand in the way, like the dog in the manger, of religious education. There is only one way to overcome the appalling conditions which exist today, and that is to create better men and women—mentally, physically, morally and spiritually. It is to the last problem that we must not give the least consideration."

The Cottage Gardener

Two or Three Plantings Will Assure the Industrious Cottage Gardener a Continuous Supply of Beans, One of the Most Welcome Treats That Come From the Home Garden.

Should Profit by His Own Mistakes

Careful Gardener Can Easily Obviate Errors of Past Season.

There is small hope for those who do not profit by their mistakes. Recently in a meeting of about 150 home gardeners, those present were asked to recount some of the mistakes that they made in the conduct of their gardens last season. Here are some of them, gathered by the United States Department of Agriculture for the benefit of the readers of the Cottage Gardener columns. The first of these gardeners to confess stated that the greatest mistake he made was in planting most of his crops too early and before the ground had become sufficiently warm. As a result many of the seeds failed to grow and the garden had to be planted over again and was late in maturing. Another of the gardeners said that his greatest mistake was in not making several plantings of certain crops such as beans, corn, beets, lettuce, spinach, etc. His mistake was in making but one planting of each, then when the crops were gathered he had nothing more coming on. Successive plantings of many of the garden crops pay well.

Poor preparation of the soil was the mistake made last year by a large number of the gardeners who attended the experience meeting. Persons who have not had a farm or market garden training seldom appreciate the need of thoroughly preparing the soil before planting. Letting the weeds get a start was the major mistake of another group of the gardeners. The time to kill weeds is when the seeds first sprout in the soil and before they become established. One gardener said that his greatest mistake was in allowing the bugs to get ahead of him and that his crops were reduced in yield as a result. Another gardener stated that he did not arrange his garden properly and that the taller crops shaded the low ones.

One planting of beans in the home garden gives the family a taste—two plantings gives them a fair supply—and three plantings will provide plenty for the greater part of the summer.

Several hundred varieties of lettuce are included in our American seed trade catalogues, but two or three varieties will give sufficient range for family use, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Head lettuce, such as Iceberg, New York, May King and Big Boston, can be grown in the early spring and late fall while the weather is reasonably cool. Loose-leaf lettuce, such as Black Seeded Simpson, Grand Rapids and Cos or Romaine, are more heat resistant than the heading sorts.

Planting Time at Hand.

Radishes have been grown ready for the table in 14 days after planting, and three small plantings will give an abundance of crisp radishes for the family table from the middle of May until the 1st of July in the latitude of Washington, D. C.

Golden Bantam sweet corn, out of the garden and over the fire and on the table in less than an hour after it is pulled, is food for kings.

Back Yard Garden and Its Problems

Soil, Seeds, Sunshine, Moisture and Brains Among Essentials.

Records kept through a period of several years by about 300 cottage gardeners indicated, or proved rather, that a well-cultivated vegetable garden paid them at the rate of about 85 cents an hour for their labor and on an acreage basis the returns at market prices were about $850 an acre. Not all the gardens yielded at this rate, many of them not half that amount, but a considerable number gave higher results so that the average for those recorded was about $85 from a tenth-acre garden.

Results like the above are seldom obtained in general farming or truck growing and come only from intensive cultivation. Of all the land under cultivation, however, the cottage or home garden should be handled the most intensively and large yields secured. According to the garden experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, there are a few very important points in the management of a dividend-paying home garden.

When Hard Work Counts.

Five ingredients, soil, seeds, sunshine, moisture and brains, must be carefully and painstakingly blended in order to make the garden pay the highest dividends. Without each one of the ingredients the mixture will fall flat and be recorded among the list of failures, but with all five harmoniously blended and backed by a reasonable amount of work, the results are in nine cases out of ten most satisfactory. The soil may be anything from rocks to fine sandy or silt loam or a mixture of all of them. Any soil that is not too hopeless may be made to produce, if enough manure, fertilizers, lime, wood ashes and labor are expended upon it. Usually it is the lot of the cottage gardener to take whatever in the way of soil and location fate has allotted to him and then make the best of it. Manure and wood ashes are hard to obtain, but commercial fertilizers and lime can be had in abundance. The labor he can supply himself and credit it to much-needed exercise if he feels so inclined. Dead weeds, leaves, street sweepings, where they do not contain oil, also refuse from the kitchen may be worked into the soil to add organic matter.

Good seeds are just as essential as good soil. Why go to all the trouble of getting the soil in condition if something worth while is not planted upon it? Where can good seeds be procured? Almost anywhere, of well-established seed dealers, but there is a great difference in seeds and it pays to get the best even though the cost is a little higher. If the garden is to pay dividends the crops must be planted at the proper time and seeds should be ordered early and be on hand when wanted for planting.

PLANS NATIONAL INDIAN SOCIETY

Wealthy Osage Redman to Organize Tribe.

"The time is at hand for the creation of a society of American Indians that will embrace all the tribes of this continent," says S. J. Soldani of the Osages, president of the recently organized Oklahoma Society of American Indians. "At the next meeting of the society, to be held in Tulsa early in June, a constitution probably will be adopted that will nationalize the organization, and when that is done, we expect to start a campaign that will spread the influence of the society into the wigwams of all tribes."

In the organization of this society Soldani is realizing the ambition of a quarter of a century. In the councils of the Osages, he has been a power for a long time, and as a member of the first Oklahoma senate after statehood, he intervened between the white men and the red men in legislation.

"American Indians never have had a get-together meeting," he says. "The tribes are scattered all over the continent, many of them now mere remnants. While gradually most of them are being absorbed by the white race, they have yet a common cause. That was never more clearly demonstrated than when the Indian Rights association recently made its reports of wrongs that have been inflicted upon the red man.

To Welcome Wild Tribes.

"But the Indian Rights association is not familiar with all the needs of the Indian. Sometimes it does not know the basic requirements of the Indian. Nobody can know it like the Indian himself. Nobody can represent the Indian as well as an Indian. Consequently, hereafter we want Indians, well-informed Indians, to represent this society in all councils where the voice of the Indian should be heard.

"In many respects the cause of one tribe is the cause of all tribes, the interest of one Indian the interest of all Indians. We expect therefore, to open the doors of the society to the wild tribes as well as to the civilized tribes. The Indian who wears a red blanket will be as welcome as the Carlisle graduate or the rich quarter-blood.

"The organization is to be conducted for the physical, educational, social and industrial welfare of the Indian. We are going to keep out of politics. When it comes to a matter concerning the welfare of the tribes being at issue in politics, the association officials will recommend support of the man, regardless of his politics, who seems to them to have their cause at heart and can be of the greatest service to them."

Blanket Indians' Politics.

A majority of Oklahoma Indians are Democrats, he said. His own tribe, the Osages, is about 50-50 in politics. The blanket Indians of the western part of the state, who have not been interested in voting, although every one of them twenty-one years old has the right to vote, have been swung back and forth by leaders of both parties. If the Great White Father in Washington is a Republican, somehow the blanket Indian feels that he ought to vote the Republican ticket. The same feeling would obtain if a Democrat were president.

"There are over 300,000 Indians in the United States, Soldani says, and about 120,000 of them are in Oklahoma. This state is the home of more tribes and remnants of tribes than all other states combined.

"These 300,000 Indians, as a unit, have a right to be heard in the political, religious, social and economic councils of this country," he says, "and it is our purpose to see that that right is accorded them."

Officials of the society are cataloguing all the American tribes. In due time a letter will reach every one of them, and every one will be invited to take part in the society's affairs.

Soldani plans this year to visit personally as many of the tribes as he can in Oklahoma and New Mexico, and other Southwestern states. He is among the oil wealthy of the Osages and can afford to put his big car and driver into service as long as is necessary in this organization work.

Doors of the society are open to intermarried citizens as well as Indians of blood, but probably the "squaw men" will not be allowed to hold office in the society.

Soldani approves of a suggestion made once by club women in Oklahoma that there should be established in Oklahoma the greatest Indian museum in the world. He says it is not unlikely that the society will seek public appropriations for that purpose, or contributions from the rich in the form of funds for building and equipping the museum and for endowment.

SCOURGE ROUTS SETTLERS FROM SOUTH SEA ISLES

Elephantiasis Forces Whites to Seek Residence in Colder Climate to Effect Cure.

One of the perils that menace the settler in the South Sea islands is the strange elephantiasis. This malady, which is prevalent on Tahiti and the neighboring islands, is an affection of the lymphatic system caused by the invasion of a microscopic worm called "filaril Sanguilnis."

There is a wide difference of opinion as to how the infection enters the system. Some investigators declare that the mosquito plays host to the worm until he enters the human body with the mosquito's attack thereon; others believe that the infection comes from drinking impure water, while the natives hold that the disease is contracted from walking in certain infected districts, through the pores of the feet, in much the same manner that hookworm invades the body.

Many Europeans who have settled in the various islands have contracted the disease. Indeed, on some islands every European resident suffers from it in a more or less advanced stage.

Elephantiasis takes the form of a chronic intermittent chill and fever, with inflammation and swelling of the lymphates. With each attack a deposit of morbid lardaceous matter is left in the tissues of the arms and legs, and in time these become permanently deformed and of prodigious size.

The only treatment is residence in a cold climate. For this reason a goodly number of whites, who have settled in the islands during the last few years, and who do not know how to take care of themselves in the tropics, have been compelled to abandon their homes and go to a cold country for a prolonged sojourn.

Science Traces Many Eye Diseases to Diet

Recent investigations, that are still going on, seem to show that the kind of food one eats has a direct etiologic relation to diseases of the eyes, and also those of the nose, throat and lungs, according to American Medicine.

This work has not yet been published, but during the last two years Dr. Amy Daniels, Dr. Margaret E. Armstrong and Dr. Mary Hutton of the department of nutrition in the University of Iowa, have made many studies of the lower animals, particularly rats, concerning the relation of prenatal feeding to rickets in children.

These investigators have been working with a vitamine, called Vitamine "A," which is soluble in fatty substances and is contained in many foods consumed by human beings. Between 400 and 500 animals were fed on this material, and they practically all developed snuffles, labored breathing and loss of appetite. Young animals would grow fairly well on this food for a couple of months, then become stationary and finally show a sudden drop in weight, health and strength.

If given soon enough, cod liver oil and butter oil would restore them to their former condition, but after a certain point was reached nothing would bring them back. On opening the skulls of such dead animals pus was found in the mastoid cells and in the nasal sinuses. Besides these signs, abscesses were found at the base of the tongue.

Russian Bandits Copy U. S. Wild West Holdup

Wild west days in the United States are having their Russian prototypes in certain thinly populated districts of the Ukraine and the Caucasus.

Within a fortnight were reported three train hold-ups by large groups of bandits. Near Rostov-on-Don between the stations of Jernevo and Stanskaya, a group of bandits robbed every passenger on one express train and killed one of them who resisted. Near Kharkov, where bandits stopped a train, armed guards opened fire and kept the bandits at bay until support arrived from the nearest station, but several passengers were wounded.

Near Vladiwavkas an armed group of 50 mounted bandits attacked the station, Soldatskaya, with the intent of robbing the rapidly approaching mail train. The engineer saw them, however, and passed the station at great speed.

Spain to Honor Memory of Explorer Menendez

John B. Stetson, Jr., has advised the Florida State Historical society that a celebration will be held in August in Aviles, Spain, the birthplace of Pedro Menendez, founder of St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States.

According to the letter from Mr. Stetson, King Alfonso is expected to attend the celebration, and delegations have been invited from this country to represent both the state of Florida and the national government. The city of St. Augustine may send a separate delegation to the ceremonies.

The ancient dignity of "adelantado of Florida" was bestowed on Menendez by King Philip II. of Spain in 1565 in recognition of his explorations in the new world.

Berlin Flour Is Cheap

American women keeping house in Berlin assert that flour is virtually the only food which now retails for the same price as in pre-war days. Foods generally are 40 to 50 per cent higher than in 1914.

WEEKLY MENU SUGGESTIONS

This is the season when oranges are the most plentiful in the market. As a breakfast fruit it is unsurpassed being enjoyed by everybody. While they are reasonable in price is the time to make marmalade.

SUNDAY—Breakfast: Poached eggs on toast. Dinner: Roast of beef, creamed carrots. Supper: Nut sandwiches, cocoa.

MONDAY—Breakfast: Coffee cake. Dinner: Steak, baked potatoes. Supper: Cabbage salad.

TUESDAY—Breakfast: Oranges, doughnuts. Dinner: Sliced roast beef with tomato sauce. Supper: Creamed potatoes.

WEDNESDAY—Breakfast: French toast, orange marmalade. Dinner: Apples stuffed with raisins. Supper: Potato pancakes, frankforts.

THURSDAY—Breakfast: Buttered toast. Dinner: Veal cutlets. Supper: Drop cookies.

FRIDAY—Breakfast: Eggs cooked in shell, muffins. Dinner: Codfish chowder: Baking powder biscuit, maple syrup.

SATURDAY — Breakfast: Buckwheat cakes. Dinner: Potato soup, buttered beets. Supper: Steamed brown bread.

Codfish Chowder.

Take one-half pound of salt pork, cut in very small dice and brown in the chowder kettle until a rich brown, add three onions sliced, stir until softened, then add one-half dozen medium-sized potatoes cut in slices. Cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are tender. Soak shredded codfish, one-half pound or more, for a half hour, drain and add to the kettle with a quart of milk. Let come to the boiling point. Soften six milk crackers in hot milk and add to the chowder. Serve very hot.

Buckwheat Cakes.

Take a yeast cake softened in a pint of water, add enough buckwheat flour to make thick batter after the yeast becomes foamy. At night add water and salt and set away until morning. In the morning take out one cupful to use as a starter for the next day's cakes, adding water and buckwheat. To the remaining batter add sour milk and a bit of soda, sugar if liked; beat well and cook on a hot griddle. This batter will keep for several weeks without adding more yeast. The cakes are tender and very light when well made. The batter must be kept in a cool place, except when rising for the next morning.

It is not enough to be industrious; so are the ants.
What are you industrious about?
—Thoreau.

MAPLE SWEETS

Anyone who has had the thrill of a visit to a maple sugar camp when the sap is being gathered and boiled and has poured the delectable sirup over a pan of clean snow and eaten the waxy deliciousness, has indeed experienced one of the joys of early spring in the North country.

One may boil the sirup at home and serve it on snow or ice, but the surroundings are lacking. The air like wine, the great woods, the song of the chickadees and the smell of the boiling sap in the open can never be imagined if not once experienced.

There are many fine dishes which may be prepared from maple sugar or sirup; as a filling for cake, maple sugar or sirup it is delicious.

Maple Filling.—Take one cupful of maple sirup or sugar—if sugar add one cupful of sour cream—if sirup is used add one-third less of cream. Boil until waxy and stir in one cupful or less of broken nut meats. Hickory or pecans are best. Beat until smooth and firm enough to stay on the cake. A buttered paper collar extending two inches above the cake may be pinned around it and the frosting or filling while soft poured on. Allow it to become firm before removing the collar. In this way a thick frosting that is creamy and soft may be placed on a cake top.

Maple Patties.—Take two cupfuls of maple sugar, one-half cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of corn sirup, two tablespoonfuls of butter, heat slowly and boil to the soft ball stage. Cool, then beat, adding a few drops of maple extract and a cupful of pecan meats. Drop into greased patty tins just before it becomes hard and when cool remove from the molds; wrap in waxed paper.

Maple Nuggets.—Take two cupfuls of maple sugar, one-half cupful of milk, cook to the soft ball stage. Beat two egg whites until stiff, pour over the boiling sirup, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and beat until firm enough to drop in the form of small nuggets on a buttered sheet.

Maple Cream Sauce.—Take one-half cupful of maple sugar, one tablespoonful of corn sirup, two tablespoonfuls of cream or the same of milk, adding butter; cook until it hairs from the spoon, add a pinch of salt, and beat until creamy; add one-half cupful of whipped cream and serve.

Back Given Out?

It's hard to do one's work when every day brings morning lameness, throbbing backache and a dull, tired feeling. If you suffer thus, why not find out the cause? Likely it's your kidneys. Headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities may give further proof that your kidneys need help. Don't risk neglect! Use Doan's Pills. Thousands have been helped by Doan's. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A California Case

U. V. Steepe, contractor, 21 Hazzard St., Placerville, Calif., says: "A cold settled in my kidneys, causing backache. I could hardly straighten, because of the awful pains which caught me through my kidneys. Everything seemed in a blur and my kidneys acted irregularly. The secretions were scanty and painful in passage. Two boxes of Doan's Pills cured me."

His Nomination at Cleveland Is Conceded

It is conceded by everyone that Coolidge will be nominated at Cleveland. The recent action of the voters of North Dakota, Michigau, Nebraska and Illinois has demonstrated beyond any question the fact that the people believe in Calvin Coolidge. They regard with deep appreciation his quiet, firm manner of dealing with public questions. They appreciate the staying at his desk, or as one senator put it, "being always on the job." The people of the country have strongly emphasized the the fact that they want Coolidge to be retained as President of the United States. They want a calm thinking, hard working American citizen as President.

Refuses to Be Forced

There will be no special session of the legislature. Governor Richardson is a conservative executive, not easily excited. He refused to be bowled off his feet by the Los Angeles delegation into calling together a hostile legislature that may resort to politics. The Governor found a way to avoid such a calamity. The two-million dollar deficiency appropriation in favor of the department of agriculture removes the necessity of a special session.

Photograph Stars With an Ordinary Camera

Anyone who owns a camera can soon ascertain for himself its power of recording stars. Open the iris diaphragm to its extreme limit, so as to uncover the full aperture of the lens. Point the camera toward any group of bright stars, and clamp it firmly to a rigid support, fixed where street or house lights do not shine into the lens. After an exposure of say half an hour, give the plate or film full development, and the trails of the stars will appear. In general they will be arcs of circles, deeply concave and centered on the pole, when the camera is pointed due north, straight when it is directed toward the celestial equator. If the exposure is continued for six hours, the arcs drawn by circumpolar stars will become quadrants. They are due, of course, to the rotation of the earth on its axis, which causes the stars to complete an apparent rotation about the pole, from east to west, in twenty-four hours.

To overcome this motion, and thus hold the star images fixed on the plate throughout the exposure, it is necessary to mount the camera equatorially, in such a way that it can be pointed toward any part of the heavens and then moved by a driving clock about an axis parallel to the axis of the earth, at the exact rate (one revolution in twenty-four hours) necessary to keep perfect pace with the stars.—George Ellery Hale in Scribner's.
